Ram Mohan Mishra, Executive Chairman, State Investment Promotion Board, Government of Meghalaya on Saturday called entrepreneurship as no less than a movement. Mishra, who was speaking at the 42nd Foundation Day of Entrepreneurship Development Institute of India (EDII) said, “Today, we all see a new era break open. The world today recognizes the potential of entrepreneurship. The Indian state and the central government are also promoting Entrepreneurship in a big way. Start-ups are getting all the support.”

He said there is a strong knowledge, policy and support infrastructure for an innovative, start-up-oriented India to flourish. “I say with pride that India is a great place to be,” he said in his lecture at the EDII

He said the favourable policies, liberalised environment, access to global technology and markets and growing financial infrastructure are all part of a progressive ecosystem that has worked as a great facilitator for the growth of entrepreneurship and promises unique competitiveness.

“I am glad we have institutions like EDII that are complementing efforts through training, incubation, capacity building and handholding,” he said.

Dr Sailendra Narain, EDII Governing Board Member and Former Chairman & Managing Director, SIDBI, Neerja A Gupta, Vice-Chancellor, Gujarat University and Rajul K Gajjar, Vice-Chancellor, Gujarat Technological University were among the other dignitaries present on the occasion.
